

BONUS 3 OF 4

PHOTOGRAPHY CLASS

Phone-only product photography that makes a handmade cap look worth its price - lighting, angles, and the shot list buyers actually respond to.

The Crochet Cap Blueprint™

2026 EDITION

WHAT'S INSIDE

No studio, no professional camera, just a window, a plain background and a shot list.

1.		Lighting - Getting It Right With Only A Window	3
----	---	---	---

2.		The Shot List - Five Photos Every Listing Needs	4
----	---	--	---

3.		The One-Plant Trick, Editing And The Common Mistake	5
----	---	--	---

Lighting

Natural light and a clean background outperform expensive equipment almost every time.

Buyers can't touch the yarn or feel the stitch detail, so your photos are doing all the selling.

- Shoot near a window with soft, indirect daylight, never direct sun, which creates harsh shadows on the stitch texture
- Overcast days are ideal, the light is even and flatters yarn colors accurately
- Avoid indoor bulbs alone, they shift colors yellow and make cotton look duller than it is

THE SHOT LIST

Five Photos Every Listing Needs

SHOT	WHY IT MATTERS
1. Worn, front-facing	Buyers need to see it on a real head to picture themselves wearing it
2. Worn, 3/4 back angle	Shows the crown motif and drop-tie detail that the front photo misses
3. Flat lay on a plain background	Shows true color and overall shape without a face distracting
4. Close-up of stitch detail	This is the photo that justifies a handmade price, buyers zoom in on texture
5. Scale reference	A hand or a common object next to the cap helps buyers judge size online

The One-Plant Trick

A single plant, a woven basket, or a wooden surface in the background instantly reads as boutique instead of craft table. You don't need a full set, one consistent prop used across your whole shop builds a recognizable style.

EDITING - KEEP IT MINIMAL

Adjust exposure and white balance only. Avoid heavy filters that shift the yarn's actual color, a buyer who receives a cap that looks different from the photo is the number one driver of returns and bad reviews in handmade sales.

COMMON MISTAKE: Photographing only flat lays. Listings with at least one worn photo consistently convert better, buyers need to see fit and drape, not just shape.

Shoot Your First Listing Set Today.

One window, one clean background, one shot list.
That is everything it takes to make a handmade cap look worth its price.

KEEP BUILDING

Next: Bonus 4, Online Selling Class, to turn these photos into your first booked order.

The Crochet Cap Blueprint™ - Bonus 3 of 4 - Photography Class.
This material is for personal use only. Reproduction or resale is prohibited.