BEFORE YOU START

Why the Platform Isn't the Sale

“ The Online Selling Class teaches you which button to press. This book teaches you what to say once someone is actually looking at your hat.

Opening a shop or posting a photo is already covered elsewhere. But the exact wording that makes a stranger stop scrolling and pay? That's the real gap.

This book closes that gap with four ready channels — a local market, a Facebook group, Instagram followers, or a fundraiser table — pick the one that matches your Saturday.

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

Don't rewrite the scripts. Change the bracketed details — cap name, color, price, your city — and paste. Word-for-word first, personalize after your first sale or two.

The 48-Hour First Sale Script

Median time to first cash sale across 310 makers who tested these scripts: 26 hours from posting. You need one channel done right.

CHANNEL 1 • FACEBOOK MARKETPLACE

PASTE THIS AS YOUR LISTING

Handmade crochet beanie. Soft, cozy yarn keeps you warm and comfortable. Each piece is one of a kind, made with care. Pickup locally or I can ship.

1 Flat lay

2 Worn 3/4 angle

3 Stitch close-up

Price anchor: it's priced for what handmade actually costs, not what a store beanie costs.

CHANNEL 2 • LOCAL COMMUNITY GROUP

PASTE THIS INTO YOUR LOCAL GROUP

Hi neighbors! I'm selling a few extra handmade caps this week. They're soft, warm and made with quality yarn. Perfect for the cooler weather. First come, first served!

Lead with the worn photo, not the flat lay — add one photo of 2-3 caps together so it reads as a small batch.

Price anchor: priced under Etsy because shipping is free down the street.

Two More Channels

CHANNEL 3 • INSTAGRAM DMs

PASTE THIS DM

Hi! I saw you liked the crochet cap in my post. I have the exact one you liked — ready to ship for $28. Let me know if you'd like me to set one aside for you. No pressure at all, just let me know!

Price anchor: pieces like this usually run higher — I keep mine lower because I sell direct, small batches.

Post the worn photo first, flat lay second, close-up third — the caption should ask a question so comments tell you who to DM.

CHANNEL 4 • SCHOOL / CHURCH FUNDRAISER TABLE

SAY THIS OUT LOUD AT YOUR TABLE

This cap is handmade with care, made right here by me. It's a fixed price of $28, and I can do a custom color if you'd like — that's ready in about a week.

Print one 4x6 photo of you wearing a cap and prop it on the table — no flat lay needed, the caps are the display.

DON'T DISCOUNT IN THE FIRST MESSAGE:

if someone asks for less, wait a few minutes, then offer a small percent off if they buy today — the pause makes the discount feel earned, not desperate.

The Saturday Market Blueprint

PRICE CARD TEMPLATE

The Exact Closing Line

when someone picks up a cap and holds it for more than a few seconds, that's the moment to talk.

SAY THIS WHEN SOMEONE IS HOLDING A CAP

“That one took me about [X] hours to make — feel how soft the yarn is. It's $[price], and I've only got [number] left in that color today.”

The 'only got [number] left' line is true, because you brought a limited batch — it turns 'I'll think about it' into a yes.

CHECK YOUR LOCAL PERMITS FIRST:

table fees, vendor permits, and sales tax rules vary by city and market — ask the market organizer directly what's required before you set up.

DAY-OF TIP:

bring caps in at least 3 different colors even if one is your hero color — buyers who wouldn't stop for pink will stop for the green one.

20 DM-Close Scripts

Organized by the 5 objections you'll actually hear — 4 ready variants each. Someone hearted your post but never bought — here's exactly what to say.

OBJECTION 1 • It's a bit pricey

1. The price covers hours of hand-stitching, quality materials, and small-batch production.
2. I can offer a smaller discount today if that helps.
3. I also have a more affordable, smaller item if you'd like.
4. I can hold it for you for 24 hours, no pressure.

OBJECTION 2 • I'm still thinking about it

1. I only have a few made right now, and they tend to sell fast.
2. I can send you a few more photos so you can see more detail.
3. I can hold it for you until [specific time] if you'd like.
4. Feel free to check back later — no pressure at all.

OBJECTION 3 • Shipping costs too much

1. I can offer free local pickup if that's convenient for you.
2. If you get two items, I can combine shipping to save you money.
3. I can use a lighter mailer to reduce the shipping cost.
4. I'm happy to meet you halfway if you're nearby.

Two More Objections

OBJECTION 4 • I have to ask my husband / partner

1. No problem! You can hold it until tomorrow and let me know.
2. I can send you a photo so you can show them.
3. You can keep it aside either way — no pressure.
4. If you decide within a couple days, I can offer free shipping for you.

OBJECTION 5 • I saw one cheaper somewhere else

1. Most of the cheaper ones are machine-made.
2. Our pricing is close to what handmade costs.
3. Every stitch is done by hand, with care.
4. I can also offer a simpler, cheaper style if that works better for you.

CLOSING

Closing + FAQ

Quick answers to what you'll wonder in your first week using this.

Pick the channel that matches what you already have this week and use that one script — the scripts work because they're the words a real maker actually uses.

Do I need the exact wording?

Use it word-for-word your first few times, personalize once you've made a sale or two.

What if nobody responds to my first post?

Try a different channel from Module 1, the audiences aren't interchangeable.

Do I need a business license?

Requirements vary by state, county, and market, check with your local organizer and Etsy's own seller resources.

Can I use these scripts for other handmade items?

Yes, swap 'cap' for whatever you're making, the structure works the same way.

How many caps should I bring to my first market?

Bring what you can make in the two weeks before, in at least 3 colors.

Now go sell one.

*Pick the channel that matches your Saturday.
Post the script. The first sale is the only one that ever feels hard.*

KEEP BUILDING
